Travel Notes

Leros

Arrival during the day and boarding at the private marina, equipped with all comforts, including a restaurant, laundry, and showers. After settling into the cabin and stocking up on provisions, there will be time to explore Leros. This island, dedicated to Artemis, the goddess of hunting and protector of femininity, is rich in history and beauty. It will be possible to stroll through peaceful bays, admire the characteristic windmills, visit the medieval castle, and explore the Italian tunnels dating back to World War II. The unique atmosphere of Leros will captivate from the very first moment, even before the true cruise begins. Overnight stay on board.

Kalymnos

The second day begins with a short and relaxing crossing, ideal for getting comfortable on board. Paliionisos Bay, located on the eastern coast of Kalymnos, is a secluded spot overlooking Turkey, surrounded by a rugged, mountainous landscape. Its crystal-clear waters offer the perfect setting for a refreshing swim among colorful fish and a natural sponge nursery. A short tender ride leads to a white-pebble beach, an excellent spot for discovering the rich marine biodiversity. Watch out for the large sea urchins, whose spines can reach up to a meter in length! In the evening, an authentic Greek dinner awaits at a family-run taverna, renowned for its fresh seafood and traditional home-cooked dishes. A true taste of local hospitality and flavors. Overnight stay on board.

Levitha

The day begins with an early morning departure from Kalymnos, heading towards Levitha, a remote and uninhabited island located about 25 miles from Leros. This untouched spot has preserved its authenticity over time, offering an experience far from modernity. With no phone signal and a timeless atmosphere, it's the perfect place to enjoy absolute peace. The island is managed by a local family who welcomes boats into the bay, offering mooring buoys and serving dinner made with fresh fish, meat, or homemade cheeses, all prepared with high-quality local ingredients. The journey to Levitha is made faster by favorable winds and the typically windy stretch of sea, allowing arrival just in time for lunch. Upon arrival, you can explore the island on foot along its natural trails or dive into the crystal-clear waters of the bay, home to fascinating marine creatures in vibrant colors. In the evening, the small taverna run by the local family offers an authentic experience with a traditional dinner prepared using fresh, local ingredients in a simple and welcoming setting. Overnight stay on board.

Lipsi

After a hearty breakfast, departure towards Lipsi, an island located to the northeast, about 20 miles away. Known as the island of Italians, Lipsi is highly appreciated by locals, many of whom spend their holidays here or own a home on the island. The charming village, with its white houses, a central church, and pedestrian streets, is perfect for exploration, especially at sunset when the atmosphere is particularly picturesque. Before entering the municipal port and mooring, if weather conditions allow, a brief stop at Makronisi is recommended. Here, there is an underwater passage that, when crossed while freediving, leads to a hidden salt lake beyond the tunnel. The evening in Lipsi culminates with dinner at Manolis' restaurant, probably the best in the archipelago. Allow yourself to be surprised by the creativity and quality of the chef's preparations—an experience not to be missed. Overnight stay on board.

Accommodation: Lipsi

Patmos

After breakfast, we will set sail towards Patmos, an island rich in spirituality and charm. A short sail will take us to the southern bays, sheltered from the wind and waves. Here, there will be the opportunity to swim and practice snorkeling, exploring the beauty of the crystal-clear waters. Using the tender, it will be possible to explore the surrounding bays and go ashore for lunch at a beachside taverna. In the evening, we will anchor in a sheltered bay, under a starry sky, making the experience even more magical. Overnight stay on board.

Arki

After breakfast, we will head towards Arki, a small island famous for its crystal-clear waters. We will navigate through rocks and shallow waters, reaching a bay known as "the pools" for its deep blue sea. Here, we will have time to swim and, with the tender, explore the surrounding waters, immersed in a blue that will be remembered for a long time. In the afternoon, we will move towards a nearby islet, where we will have the opportunity to moor to a buoy for the night. Arki is also an inhabited island, with a small village and two tavernas on the pier, where you can enjoy local cuisine in a calm and relaxing atmosphere. Overnight stay on board.

Agathonisi

After breakfast, we will set sail towards Agathonisi, a small island located to the east of Arki, near the Turkish coast. The name of the island, which in Greek means "beautiful island," is no coincidence. Upon arrival, we will head to a bay famous for its stunning underwater scenery. After a long swim and a delicious pasta meal on board, with a bit of luck and the help of the military, it may be possible to dock at the ferry pier. From there, you can explore the island on foot and enjoy dinner at a taverna (practically the only one on the island) serving incredibly fresh fish. Alternatively, the boat can be moored by tying it to the rocks in an extraordinary bay. Overnight stay on board.

Leros

The sail between Agathonisi and Leros is relatively long but always comfortable thanks to favorable winds. Halfway through the journey, a large rock called Aspronisi is encountered, known for its white color. Originally, it was a large, flat rock, resembling a knife blade stuck into the seabed. Over time, the central part has eroded, creating a passage that can be walked through in the water. A true natural spectacle! Arrival in Leros takes place in the late afternoon, just in time for a refreshing shower at the marina. Afterward, enjoy an excellent dinner at one of the best restaurants in the Dodecanese, Il Mylos By the Sea. Overnight stay on board.

Leros

After breakfast, departure by ferry to Kos or flight to Athens. If desired, you will still have some time to explore the island, or you may choose to extend your stay in Leros by booking a B&B for a few more days. End of services
